MIND

A possible theme for
First-Year Studies

Six encounters. Many ways of knowing.

Proposed works and objects for a shared first-year experience.

01 Zhuangzi · The Inner Chapters

Dreaming, identity and practiced skill become unforgettable scenes: a butterfly, a butcher and the cultivation of heart-mind.

Chinese philosophy / literature / movement

02 Jikji · Pointing Directly to Mind

The oldest surviving book printed with movable metal type is a Korean Buddhist work on mind and awakening. Cheongju, 1377.

Buddhism / print / art / history of technology

03 Jorge Luis Borges · Funes, His Memory

A person who cannot forget makes perfect memory intellectually unsettling. Pair the fiction with research on memory and abstraction.

Latin American literature / psychology / philosophy

04 W. E. B. Du Bois · The Souls of Black Folk

Double-consciousness makes the social world part of inward life. The Sorrow Songs make listening part of reading.

History / literature / music / social thought

05 Pauline Oliveros · Sonic Meditations

Text scores make attention and collective listening material for musical practice. A work that a class can study and perform.

Music / attention / performance / community

06 Oliver Sacks · The Man Who Mistook His Wife for a Hat

Narrative accounts of perception and identity connect brain science with individual lives, music and the ethics of representation.

Neuroscience / narrative / music / disability studies
